DETAILED ACTION

This action is responsive to applicants' request for continued examination received July 26, 2006. Claims 1, 2, and 4-58 are currently pending.

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1 and 5-37 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-35 of copending Application No. 10/726,740. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not yet been patented.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the referenced copending application and would be covered by any patent granted on that copending application since the referenced copending application and the instant application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: The present application claims a silicone, a viscosity modifying agent which may be a perfume and a deposition aid. The copending application claims a silicone, perfume, and the identical deposition aid. Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant would be prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application in the other copending application. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Claim Objections

1. Claim 6 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 2, 5-37, and 40-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hunter et al, US 6,939,842.

Hunter et al teach a laundry treatment composition comprising a silicone and a substituted polysaccharide (see abstract). An example of such a composition is an emulsion comprising nonionic surfactant, polydimethylsiloxane, and silicone substituted polysaccharide (col. 27, example 1). Another example is an emulsion comprising nonionic surfactant, anionic surfactant, phosphate and carbonate builders, aminosilicone, and silicone substituted polysaccharide (col. 27, example 1). Note that the silicones of the invention comprise polydialkyl siloxanes, amino siloxanes, and mixtures thereof (col. 34, claim 10). As aminosilicones are preferred volatile and low viscosity silicones of the invention, the examiner maintains that a mixture of polydimethyl siloxane and aminosilicone will satisfy the silicone and viscosity modifying agent presently claimed. As this reference meets all material limitations of the claims at hand, the reference is anticipatory.

Applicants have traversed this rejection on the grounds that the aminosilicone taught by the reference is taught as a non-volatile silicone. The examiner disagrees, can find no teaching that aminosilicones are non-volatile, and notes that aminosilicones are well known in the art as volatile and of low viscosity. Accordingly, the rejection is maintained.

2. Claims 1, 2, 4-12, 30-32, 34-48, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Barnabas et al, US 7,012,053.

Barnabas et al teach fabric care compositions comprising a polysaccharide and wrinkle control agent (see abstract). An example of such a composition comprises

Art Unit: 1751

0.4% silicone/butylacrylate/acrylic acid copolymer, 1% of a silicone emulsion comprising silicone and an anionic/nonionic surfactant system, 0.04% perfume, 0.3% ethoxylated alcohol surfactant, and 0.5% silicone surfactant (col. 110, example IXc). As this reference meets all material limitations of the claims at hand, the reference is anticipatory.
